Research Guide

St. Augustine Library

Searching for Items in our Collection:

- Use the Library Web Page to access the online catalog to search for items in our library collection. You may access the catalog from any computer in the library using the “Catalog” tab from Google Chrome. Or you can access the catalog from anywhere you have an internet connection via this direct link.

Electronic Books (E-Books)

The library subscribes to the HEB Collection (ACLS Humanities E-Books). It includes over 5,000 books which are accessible from our online catalog. In our catalog, you will see [electronic resource] after the title of the book and a URL to connect to the book itself.

Books may be read, downloaded, or printed a chapter at a time.

Digital Collections

- American Libraries: Over 3 million digitized items in this collection which covers many facets of American life and scholarship; includes full-text books, images, video and audio materials.
- Bartleby.com - Great Books Online: Collection of classic American and British literature available in full text. Users can search the full text of the books for key words.
- The Internet Archive: A non-profit library of free books, movies, software, music, websites, and more.

- JSTOR and ARTSTOR Open Content: Scholarly e-books, journals, media, images, and research reports.
- Project Gutenberg: A library of over 60,000 free e-books, all of which are in the public domain (copyright cleared).
- The Smithsonian Libraries: This online collection focuses on Smithsonian publications, art and design, history and culture, and the history of technology.
- Turning the Pages: Online versions of great books available through the British Library,

Other Online Sources

- Comparative Literature and Culture: This peer-reviewed, full-text, and open-access journal publishes new scholarship in theory and criticism, comparative literature, and cultural studies.
- Online Library of Liberty: Digital library of scholarly works focused on individual liberty and free markets. From Art and Economics to Law and Political Theory, the OLL provides a curated collection of resources available at no charge.
- Stanford Encyclopedia of Philosophy: A continuously revised reference work of over 1,600 entries; combines an online encyclopedia of philosophy with peer-reviewed publication of original papers in philosophy,
- Voice of the Shuttle: Meta-site with links to humanities and humanities-related resources on the internet.
- For more articles, use Google Scholar: Search the free web for scholarly articles (<http://scholar.google.com>); note the name of the journal, the article, title, author, date, volume, number, and pages of the issue. This is important information if you are requesting an interlibrary loan.

Interlibrary Loans:

- WorldShare Interlibrary Loan connects our library to thousands of other libraries whose collections are available to us as a member institution.

- Talk to library staff about items you wish to borrow or copies of journal articles you will need for your research; while books and media may take a week to ten days to arrive, journal articles may be available within a day or two.

Citations

They give credit to the works of others when you write about them or use their work. The basic elements of a citation include author, title, publisher, and date of publication.
